RULERS ASSASSINATED

King and Queen of Servia Murdered.

Result of a Revolution Planned by Opponents of Alexander's Government—Other Persons Killed.

Belgrade, Servia, June 11.—King Alexander and Queen Draga were shot to death in the royal palace during the night. The deed was carried out by the army. Besides the king and queen Premier Markovitch, General Petrovitch and Former Minister of War Pavlovitch were shot.

A military revolution broke out last night. Troops, who revolted under the leadership of Major Angkovic, surrounded the palace and assassinated King Alexander, Queen Draga, the latter's sister, the queen's brother Nikodem, Premier Markovitch, Ministers Petrovitch and Tudorovitch, General Pavlovitch, former minister of war, and some members of the royal guard. Prince Karageorgievitch was proclaimed king. A new government was formed and the following proclamation issued:

"To the people of Servia: Last night the king and queen were shot. In this grave and fateful movement friends of the fatherland have combined to form a new government. While the government makes this announcement to the people it is convinced the Servian people will gather around it and lend it their aid to maintain order and security throughout the land. The government hereby makes known that from today the constitution of April 6, 1901, comes into force. A meeting of national representatives, dissolved by proclamation March 28, is summoned to meet at Belgrade June 15."

The people received the news of the assassination quietly. The bodies of the king and queen remain in the palace, which is surrounded by a strong detachment of troops.

ANOTHER VERSION.
Berlin, June 11.—The Frankfort Zeitung in its version of the tragedy at Belgrade says when troops entered the royal bed room King Alexander seized a revolver, shot the queen and then killed himself.

ARE NOT ALARMED.
London, June 11.—The tragedy at the palace at Belgrade, marking the latest revolution which has convulsed Servia from time to time during the past century, is not regarded in diplomatic circles in London as likely to lead to a civil war. Stress is laid on the unpopularity of King Alexander since his marriage to Queen Draga, King Alexander's successor is a son-in-law of the prince of Montenegro and is regarded as being most acceptable to the people. He was pretender to the throne for many years. He was born in Belgrade in 1868. The universal anxiety of governments of Europe for peace is advanced as the reason why the Servian situation is not likely to lead to complications. Should, however, these unexpected arise official circles think the Austro-Hungarian army will immediately march into Servia and restore order. This, eventually, however, is considered improbable.

M. Milatovich, Servian minister at London, said there was many causes leading to the revolution. A large section of the people was greatly dissatisfied with the tendency of King Alexander to eliminate the radical element from the government and by constant rumors of his intention to appoint Queen Draga's brother Lanza as his successor. In addition the queen was disliked by the people, who were also intensely outraged at the recent suspension of the constitution. The minister did not anticipate changes would result in internecine strife or in any real danger to the country. The minister related a curious incident. He said that a month ago he was present at a clairvoyant's seance, at which a letter written by the murdered king was handed to the clairvoyant, who immediately became violently agitated and proclaimed King

Alexander would be assassinated very shortly, even depicted the scene which appears to have been enacted at the palace last night.

As the day advanced excitement in the streets grew steadily and in spite of a pouring rain thousands gathered in the vicinity of the palace. Everywhere troops were posted and field guns placed in position to quickly deal with any opposition to the newly formed government's will. Bands of young men paraded the streets shouting "Long live Karageorgievitch." Flags are flying from nearly every house in Belgrade. There are absolutely no signs of mourning. Reports from places outside of Belgrade indicate the country accepts the disappearance of the Obrenovitch dynasty without regret.

HOW IT WAS PLANNED.
Vienna, June 11.—Belgrade dispatches say the revolution was planned last night. Secret committees were organized in the country and worked in co-operation with the army. Leaders of the revolution are said to have been the new ministers of justice and finance, respectively M. Schevcevic and Vailkovic, and the 8th regiment infantry, garrisoning Belgrade, was designated to carry out the plot. It was originally intended the plot should be executed later, but during the night the parliament would settle the question of succession to the throne hastened matters. Colonel Naumovic, the king's adjutant, was entrusted with execution of the plan. While on duty at 11 o'clock last night Naumovic burst in the door of the royal couple's sleeping apartments with a bomb and then entered, accompanied by Michies and a number of junior officers. Previously the palace guard had been ordered to stand at attention. Captain Pavgowitch, killed. Naumovic presented to the king a form of abdication for his signature. The document contained the statement that by marrying a public prostitute the king had degraded Servia and therefore he must abdicate. The king's answer was to draw a revolver and kill Naumovic on the spot. Michies then picked up the document and presented it again and the king, who perceived his danger, fled with Queen Draga to the palace roof, both being in their night clothes. Officers followed, continuously firing, and ultimately shot down the royal couple. Maj. Luka Lazarevich, who had been under the king's displeasure two years, is said to have fired the shot which actually killed the king.

About 2 o'clock this morning Queen Draga's two brothers, who shot at their homes, as well as Premier Markovitch and his brother-in-law, M. Milkovitch, minister of interior; M. Tudorovitch and his daughter and War Minister General Pavlovitch were killed.

While these events were proceeding at the palace the streets were entirely occupied by soldiers and an armed force surrounded the royal residence. Horses and guns of artillery were decorated with greenery as for a festival. Soldiers discarded the badge of King Alexander from their helmets. An attempt was made to support the dynasty by the commander of the Danube division, who tried to march the Eighth regiment of infantry into the city to help the late king, but was opposed by a body of troops under Colonel Gaspovic. In the fight which ensued both officers were killed.

What purports to be an official explanation of the tragedy was issued at Belgrade during the day. It says: "After dinner Wednesday evening the king and queen with some of their relatives and several ministers sat on a balcony of the palace. Suddenly the king demanded Queen Draga leave the country. She refused and was supported by the ministers. When the king saw this opposition he ordered the military to occupy the palace. Meanwhile the queen's friends were active and collected her supporters. It was in a fight between the two factions that the king and queen were killed."

A dispatch received by the Austrian foreign office announced the Servian parliament, which has been summoned for June 15, will only elect Prince Karageorgievitch king in event of Austria and Russia not opposing such a step. Austria will not oppose because, although the prince was once an avowed enemy of Austria, he has since given repeated assurances that in event of his coming to the throne of Servia he was desirous of living amicably with Austria. The question of Austria's intervention in the present situation has so far only been considered in the case of Jett is as confident as ever. While he may be disappointed. Ewen this morning detailed a story of attempted bribery. Several days ago he was offered $5,000 to alter his testimony so as not to incriminate Jett. Placing of the town under martial law. Provost Marshal Longmire in charge and backed by a battalion of troops has been the impression Governor Beckham proposes to see that law and order shall prevail in Breathitt county and the opinion is expressed intimidation that has prevailed in this county for years has lost its force. It is thought both jurors and witnesses will have less fear in the discharge of their duties. Order and confidence being obtained is not known here for years. It was openly stated to day R. L. Ewen would not have dared heretofore to have told about being offered $5,000 if he would not testify against defendants. This he did today, though he could not positively name the man who made the offer.

Several witnesses today corroborated the testimony of Ewen given yesterday as to incidents before and following the shooting of Marcum. One witness testified to hearing a conversation in which it was said two men would give $200 each to have the prisoners pardoned in case of conviction to guard against confession.

Mrs. Johnson, on the witness stand, reaffirmed her statement that Jett admitted to her he killed Marcum, her brother, and said that as far as she saw Jett was not a bad man. Jett was lying in wait to kill Marcum. Another witness testified to having heard Jett tell Mrs. Johnson he shot Marcum.

HELD TO THE GRAND JURY

Preliminary Hearing of Upton and McGregor, Ex-Attaches of Postoffice Department.

Baltimore, June 11.—The preliminary hearing of Col. Ellsworth Upton and Thomas W. McGregor, charged with complicity in postoffice department frauds, took place today before United States Commissioner Rogers. The specific charge against Upton and McGregor was that they had conspired with C. E. Smith to furnish mail pouches to the government at exorbitant figure.

At day's testimony Smith was used as a witness for the government. He testified that he bought the pouches in 10,000 lots in Worcester, Mass., paying 30 and 35 cents per pouch. On advice of Upton he put in a bid at 90 cents, which was accepted. When he got the money he gave 40 per cent to Upton and McGregor and kept the balance himself. He said he sent the bids to Superintendent Machen at Washington.

Commissioners Rogers bound over the accused men to the United States grand jury, which meets next Saturday.
